HITS PICKETING AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 11—Rep-at-large Stephen M. Young (D-O.) wants the police to prevent picketing of the White House.

Suggesting that the home life of the president ought to be respected the same as that of the humblest citizen, Young said that mass picketing of the white house was a "public nuisance and a disgrace which should not be tolerated."

"Enough is enough," Young added in a statement in the house record, "I call upon the District of Columbia authorities to abate this public nuisance and end this offense against public decency and the home life of a citizen who happens to be president of the United States."

The Ohioan said that the capital or the senate and house office building would be a more appropriate place for picketing against war.

"Even morons," he added, "should know that only congress may declare war."

Torpedoed — Six Days In a Boat

After six days at sea in a lifeboat from the torpedoed British freighter Marconi, surviving seamen approach the United States Coast Guard cutter General Greene. The cutter made the rescue about 270 miles south of Greenland after picking up distress signals broadcast from a portable sending set in one of the two lifeboats it found.

"Uncle Dan" Beard, Scout Chief, Dies

(By Associated Press)

SUFFERN, N. Y.—Daniel Carter Beard, one of the founders of the Boy Scouts of America, died today.

"Uncle Dan," as he was affectionately known by millions of Boy Scouts, would have been 91 years old on June 21. He had been ill since April 20 when he contracted a cold at his 14-acre estate here.

The venerable scoutmaster and naturalist, loved the world over by men who used to be boys, and by the boys themselves, died in his quiet rustic woodland home, "The Brooklands."

His daughter, Mrs. Barbara Price, was at his bedside. Death resulted from a heart condition which followed the cold and which was complicated by old age.

"Uncle Dan" was chief of 1-400,000 Boy Scouts of America which he helped Ernest Thompson-Seton found in 1910, two years after Sir Robert Baden-Powell formed his scouts in England.

The famous woodsman, artist and writer had enjoyed robust health until recent months. He was the author of many books on nature lore.

His recent illness had kept Beard, who won early fame as the original illustrator of Mark Twain's early books, from completing the drawings for a recent article he wrote for the August issue of Boy's Life. He had written a monthly article for the magazine for 20 years.

Recently he had spent most of his time dictating articles and coloring his last drawings.

Declares Jury Duty Is Civic Responsibility

Judge Joel H. Sharp spoke on "Jury Duty" at the Rotary club's weekly meeting yesterday. Judge Sharp, an honorary member of the club, praised the high quality of service, rendered but stressed that business and professional men could raise the standard still higher if they would serve when called.

Calling jury service a "civic responsibility," Sharp stated that attendance was mandatory and releases did not have to be granted. Busy men, he said, should try to serve at least part of their 15 day call before requesting deferment.

The program was in charge of Fred Emery.

ARMED TROOPS WILL BACK UP LABOR POLICY

Government to Run Seized Plants As Long As Necessary

STANDS BACK OF MEDIATION BOARD

"Work or Quit!" Is Policy
Indicated Today By Senator Byrnes

WASHINGTON, June 11—Administration leaders indicated today that the authority of the government to operate seized defense plants as long as necessary would be used to enforce decisions of the national mediation board where strikers return to work and submit labor disputes to the board for negotiation.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC), acting senate majority leader, told reporters that such a policy appeared likely in the case of the CIO strikers who agreed conditionally to resume work in the North American Aviation company plant at Inglewood, Calif., now operating under army supervision by the President's orders.

Vote to Work

The striking union members voted yesterday to go back on the job, provided that there would be no discrimination against them, that union cards would not be forfeited and that they be allowed to negotiate immediately on their original demands for wage increases and a union shop.

Asked how the board would enforce its decision, once it reached a conclusion, Byrnes replied: "The government can continue to operate the plant. If the men don't want to accept the decision of the mediation board they can quit."

Get Regular Pay

President Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday that men who had returned to work in the North American plant would get their regular pay this week. If any increase was granted as a result of mediation, he said, it would be retroactive as of May 1.

Plant owners, he went on, would get back their property as soon as it was possible for the government to turn it over to them.

Lynch, at Camp Shelby, Miss.

The board immediately filled the vacancy by appointing Miss Dorothy Dillon, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Dillon, Beaver st., who was graduated from Kent State university on Monday evening of this week.

Miss Ann Rogers, secretary in the high school office, who will become the bride of Harold Lower on Thursday, also resigned her position, but the vacancy has not yet been filled.

WORKERS BACK AT INGLEWOOD

Threat of Walkout at San Diego Airplane Plant
Is Lessened

(By Associated Press)

Under careful army scrutiny, more erstwhile strikers flocked back to work at the Inglewood, Calif., plant of North American Aviation Corp. today, while on several other fronts the defense-labor picture brightened perceptibly.

At the Consolidated Aircraft corporation, San Diego, the threat of a strike lessened when the management and officials of the AFL Machinists union reached an agreement last night on the terms of a proposed new labor contract. This occurred as workers in the huge bomber plant finished a secret ballot on the question of authorizing union officials to order a walkout, if necessary, to enforce wage increase demands. Results of the balloting were expected to be announced today, but the new contract will not be submitted to the union membership for action until tomorrow.

Settlement Outlined

The U. S. conciliation service reached a settlement recommendation last night with the representatives of 2,800 striking AFL teamsters and 179 truck companies at Pittsburgh. Terms of the settlement were not disclosed, pending ratification by the full union membership and the management association. An answer was expected by tonight.

President Roosevelt announced at his press conference yesterday that Harvey W. Brown, president of the AFL Machinists' union, whose strike at 11 San Francisco bay shipyards has seriously retarded $500,000,000 worth of shipbuilding, would ask the union's executive board today to order the 1,500 to 1,700 men back to work.

However, six plants of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass company at Detroit remained closed by yesterday's strike of 4,000 CIO-UAW men. The dispute was certified to the mediation board Monday.

The promising terms in negotiations at Consolidated came as defense officials watched apprehensively the all-day strike ballot, for union officials said the vote would undoubtedly authorize leaders to call a strike at their discretion.

Terms Not Announced

Terms of the new proposal was not announced. The union has asked a basic wage boost from 50 to 60 cents with an automatic increase to 75 cents after six months, a union shop and other concessions.

Consolidated holds $700,000,000 in orders for planes for the army and navy and hourly-paid employees. At Inglewood the North American strikers did not return en masse, as they demanded the right to do yesterday. That proposal was turned down by Lt. Col. Charles E. Branshaw, commander of the troops who occupied the plant under presidential order Monday and broke the strike. Instead, each returning workman was examined painstakingly before he was admitted. The CIO men accepted good-naturedly the army's refusal to let them march back to work in a body.

Administration leaders in congress indicated continued army operation of seized plants might be used to enforce acceptance of impartial reconciliation.

Find Parachutes

Parachutes were scattered among the wreckage, leading officers to believe that the fliers were preparing to bail out when the ship nose-dived.

Holsten and John J. Gallagher, en route east on furloughs, and Staff Sergeant Terence J. McGurgan, radio operator, and Dallas E. Hawley, flight engineer.

FIND WRECKAGE OF LOST ARMY BOMBER

Troops Guard Remains of Plane In Which Six
Lost Lives

LYMAN, Wyo., June 11—Soldiers stood guard today over the wreckage of a twin-motored army bomber which nosed into a brush-covered hillside 10 miles east of this frontier town.

Convoys of army trucks converged on the scene where six air corps fliers lost their lives during a howling June snowstorm. The entire wreckage will be salvaged, officers reported, because the twisted metal is valuable.

Bodies Mangled

Bodies of the fliers were hauled away in army ambulances yesterday afternoon only a few hours after the first ground party reached the scene. Mangled almost beyond recognition and hurled into the nose of the bomber, plunged earthward, the victims were taken to the air base at Salt Lake City.

Army officials ordered a routine investigation. Instruments which might reveal the cause were guarded closely.

The plane went down during one of western Wyoming's worst storms. Rain, wind and storm lashed the uplands last Sunday when the bomber, enroute from Salt Lake City to Chicago, encountered trouble, circled the air several times, then headed eastward to disaster while apparently seeking an emergency landing field.

President Makes Report to Congress on Lease-Lend
Transfers

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—President Roosevelt, reporting that "a little over $75,000,000" of defense materials have been transferred under the lease-lend law, told congress today "we will help Britain to outstrip the Axis powers in munitions of war."

"And we will see to it," the President emphasized, "that these munitions get to the places where they can be effectively used to weaken and defeat the aggressors."

Methods Not Mentioned

He made no mention of methods to be used to insure delivery.

It was the chief executive's first report to the legislators on the progress of the gigantic program to supply arms to Britain, China and "the other democratic nations." The lease-lend authorization bill was signed three months ago today. How much of the $75,000,000 went to Britain and how much may have been transferred to other nations was not indicated.

"We have supplied and we will supply," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "planes, guns, ammunition, and other defense articles in ever increasing quantities to Britain, China and other democracies resisting aggression."

The report itself showed that of the transfers of war supplies already made, the greatest portion of $75,202,425 was for "water craft, etc." to a total of $26,183,199, and ordnance, including arms and miscellaneous next with $20,580,109. Aircraft was down for $4,028,296.

The figures did not represent actual cost of the weapons of war. Some were approximations of value after depreciation, obsolescence and deterioration were taken into account.

Exports Rising Steadily

And while the total was relatively small, Mr. Roosevelt noted that exports of war goods to Britain had risen steadily since September, 1939, when European nations began their conflict.

His report itself covered shipments for the period from March 11 to May 31, but in the first five months of this year, the President said, Britain was sent 12 times as many planes and 10 times as many aircraft engines as in the first five months of 1940.

"Relatively more and more heavy bombers and medium bombers are being sent," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt also said this country has sent 17 times as much in dollar value of explosives over the first four months of the year and 90 times as much in dollar valuation of firearms and ammunition in the first four months of 1941, compared with the similar 1940 period.

The report showed that out of a $7,000,000,000 appropriation for aid to countries battling the Axis powers, more than $4,200,000,000 have been allocated for specific use. There was $1,938,823,469 for aircraft and aeronautical material.

RELIEF EXPENSES FOR MONTH FILED

LISBON, June 11—The administration of relief in Columbiana county cost $2338.69 during the month of May, when relief orders in the sum of $4,348.29 were written and surplus commodities in the amount of $7,600 were distributed, according to a report by Director John W. Orr to the county commissioners today.

The administration costs included $924.15 for the operation of the relief office; $535.16 for the surplus commodities department; $603.03 for pre-auditing of relief vouchers. Also included in the administration costs was $221.88 for the operation of a WPA sewing project, and $21.96 contributed toward the housekeeping aid project.

NATIONAL POLICY ON STRIKES

Federal intervention in the North American Aviation Co. strike brings the strike issue to a climax.

Intervention amounts to government confirmation of popular opinion, that strikes which interfere with defense production are intolerable.

Henceforth, workers with the same decision to make can take their cue from what happened to workers of North American Aviation Co. Either they can avert a stoppage of work, or face the consequences of federal intervention.

It is apparent at the outset that organized labor's own internal quarrels are going to be increased; besides the friction between AFL and CIO, there evidently is destined to be a schism between moderates and radicals in both organizations, with the radicals taking the position that strikes take precedence over national security.

In a real sense, the radicals have chosen to throw down a challenge to national discipline. For reasons best known to themselves, they have raised the question of labor's ability to give due consideration to America's security. Whatever the reason, the result must not be permitted. There must be no work stoppage in defense industries. That is policy. Everything else is a quibble.

It is unfortunate that the strike issue should have arisen and that, having arisen, it had to be resolved by force, rather than by the persuasion of labor's own leadership. But the main thing is now that it has been resolved. President Roosevelt declared that work stoppages were intolerable in his declaration of an unlimited emergency. His declaration was defied. He had no choice but to use federal troops to prove that he meant what he said. The overwhelming majority of the people—the overwhelming majority of unionists—are behind the President. Who or what the work-stopping minority is behind is of secondary importance now. It is not the United States of America.

BRITAIN'S NEXT TO THE LAST STAND

It is not reassuring to be reassured about Great Britain's chances in Syria and the eastern Mediterranean area. The reassurances are reminiscent of similarly hopeful statements about the prospects in the middle Mediterranean, about Yugoslavia, and Greece, and more recently Crete. Perhaps the British can hold Suez, but in view of their previous failures to fight anything except costly rear-guard actions the odds have lengthened.

Britain's defeats, starting with the retreat across the channel from Dunkirk, all have been costly. Not all the cost has been measured in lives and equipment lost, either. There has been a tremendous sacrifice of prestige. There even has been, according to signs of unrest reported in the United Kingdom, itself, a considerable sacrifice of confidence. The British still believe they can make their enemies pay dearly for all success, but they are not certain they can avert success.

Thus, if the last stand in the Mediterranean—and that's what it is—should be made at the expense of valuable naval units, the game scarcely could be held worth the candle. With the middle Mediterranean already controlled by land-based enemy planes, Suez is worthless, except as a back door for supplying the army in Africa. In view of the fact the battle for control of the Suez area is Britain's last stand on the continent and its next to the last stand in the war, defeat would be an unprecedented blow to morale.

Without the fact being acknowledged, the war has resolved itself into the pattern foreseen at the beginning, when the Maginot line still was intact—a war of attrition. The combatants are wearing each other out. The trench warfare stalemate of 25 years ago has become the rear guard action, carried on at heavy expense to both sides, but having relatively little effect on the main objective, which is the defeat of the British in their own island.

Lord Beaverbrook has warned that he believes invasion to be near. The ancient wheeze that Britain loses every battle except the last one remains to be tested in a modern application. The battle of Syria may be lost or may be won; the battle of Britain still is the important thing. It must be won at such expense to Germany that all Britain's other expensive defeats can be discounted. That is almost as much the responsibility of the United States, which has cast its lot with Britain, as it is the responsibility of the British, themselves. There must be no shortage of equipment for the last stand.

A MOST exhilarating and promising day may be heralded by very auspicious planetary vibrations, with the forecast of the element of surprise, suddenness, strange and intriguing adventures and experiences, all of which combine to enhance personal prestige, popularity and happiness as well as to put the financial status on a progressive and productive basis. Change is involved but be watchful in public contact or relations.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a pleasant year of unexpected advancement, much progress, with enhanced popularity, prestige and fulfilled ambitions, attainment of many cherished hopes and wishes, both practical, material and aspirational. An all around expansive and warming as well as surprising element dominates, the only menace being a too exhilarated or ambitious pace. With some conservatism and an eye to public antagonism or jealousy, it is a time for advance upon the highest goals and ideals of happiness.

A child born on this day should be excellently endowed for the surprising success and accomplishment which will crown its expansive and generous life. It may have practical talents as well as much cultural and humanitarian ambition.

ASTHMA AN ALLERGY

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE.

CLEVELAND, June 11.—(The Special News Service.)—If you want to stay alive through an attack of asthma, don't permit anyone, not even a doctor, to give you morphine.

Asthma itself seldom or never kills, Dr. Warren T. Vaughan of Richmond, Va., explained at a symposium he'd by the American Association for the Study of Allergy. But morphine may kill, he added.

Asthma usually is an allergy. That is, its choking sensations may be brought on by a sensitivity to food or many other commonplaces.

Discussing morphine, Dr. Vaughan related the experience of a southern Negro asthmatic.

This man's physician injected epinephrine, a standard remedy which mitigates but does not immediately end a spasm. Once the doctor was away, and the Negro's wife took him to another physician, who injected morphine. The wife related later that "he just rolled over and died so nice and quiet."

Dr. Vaughan told of the only two asthmatics whose lives he was certain he had saved. One was a girl, who was under an oxygen tent when he saw her, obviously dying. The other was a boy, also under an oxygen tent.

His "medicine," in each case, was merely to remove the pillow. Each patient recovered in an hour or two.

The girl was allergic to the feathers in the pillow. No one knew what was wrong with the boy's pillow, but it was removed under the dictum that any change in environment may help an asthmatic.

Accasionally an oxygen tent may be bad, said Dr. Bret Ratner, of New York City, because some persons during an asthmatic attack may also suffer from claustrophobia, the fear of an enclosed space. This is apt to be true of children.

Dr. Ratner said that a gentle breeze from a fan on the face of an asthmatic child often reassures the patient.

There was a difference of opinion about permitting asthmatics to carry their own boxes of sprays and hypodermics for self-administration. Bad, they may overdo and hurt themselves, said some physicians.

But Dr. George Piness, Los Angeles, said the relief box gave an asthmatic a sense of security, which in itself might help ease an attack.

SPOTTED FEVER SEASON IS HERE

Bites of Wood Ticks Cause the Malady

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A report in a medical journal concerning a case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in Pennsylvania and one in New York State would seem to indicate that dangers from wood-ticks are not confined to the Rocky Mountain regions alone.

The Rocky Mountain region is however liable to epidemics of spotted fever. Spotted fever is contracted from the bite of an infected wood-tick. The term Rocky Mountain region, however, is rather indefinite as it extends practically from Texas to the Pacific ocean and from lower California to lower Canada.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Outbreaks of Rocky Mountain spotted fever usually begin early in April. The number of cases gradually increases in May and June, falls off in July. Very few cases occur in August.

Symptoms

The symptoms come on three to four days after having been bitten by an infected tick. The fever runs a course from fourteen to twenty-seven days. There is no successful treatment after the onset of the fever and hope lies in prevention by fighting the ticks or by submitting to annual vaccination.

There is one safeguard which depends on the peculiar fact that the virus of the disease is not discharged from the tick until after it has fed for several hours. It seems that the virus lies dormant in the tick's body and requires that it be activated by fresh blood. Therefore if the tick is picked off immediately, the danger of infection is slight. However, no tick bite should be considered harmless. A vaccine has been prepared which can be used as a preventive. It is given as injections under the skin some days apart.

Other Fevers From Ticks

The fever usually attacks young adults, those who go into woods, and these are the ones who especially should consider preventive vaccination. In children the fever assumes the form of paralysis and is probably caused by a tick that has been feeding on a child for five or six days.

The tick may be found anywhere on the body but is usually discovered on the scalp, arm pit, groin, or behind the ear. Several other fevers are transmitted by ticks, such as tularemia, Colorado tick fever (which is mild) and relapsing fever. The germ of most of these diseases lies dormant in the body of many wild or semi-wild animals, rabbits, game birds, squirrels and other rodents. These are the hosts or reservoirs of the tick diseases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. K.: "What is the cause of fistula? Do they turn to cancer?"
Answer: Fistula may occur any place and is usually due to an infection which burrows through the skin. When fistula is mentioned, what is meant is generally a fistula of the rectum. These can be cured by surgical treatment under a local anesthetic. They do not turn to cancer.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Streamliner "Torpedo" Six Sedan Coupe $923*

"YOU BET I LIKE my 1941 Pontiac 'Torpedo' better than any car I've ever owned. And why shouldn't I? It's brimming over with pep, power and get-away. It's a beauty inside and out. In fact it's everything Pontiac owners told me it would be."

"But it's even more than that. Pontiac is the first big car I've ever had—and I can tell you there's a whole lot of difference between owning a big car and a small one. You have more room of course—but that doesn't begin to tell the story. You get a big car ride—and by that I mean Pontiac gives you enough length and weight, without which no car can really be comfortable."

"But most important of all is the feel

Pontiac gives you—you know you're really got hold of something when you get behind the wheel! Call it pride of ownership or whatever you like, but Pontiac certainly gives you a lot of it!

"Yet Pontiac is priced so low that my monthly payments are unbelievably small. Also I'm getting even better gasoline and oil mileage than from the lowest-priced car I previously owned. Furthermore, Pontiac will save me money on repairs and upkeep. So I'm saving plenty all around."

"Yes, sir—I signed off motoring worries when I signed the order for a Pontiac 'Torpedo.' You'd better do the same—today—at your Pontiac dealer's!"

"THE GORGON'S MASK"

by Van Wyck Mason

SYNOPSIS

To the very rim of the Shanghai-Tientsin-Hongkong Far East war zone goes Capt. Hugh North to work "on the inside" for peace in the guise of Howard Nevins, big game hunter. Within the hour of his arrival at Honolulu, he is warned via phone by a woman's voice to return to the States. That night he attends a gay party tendered by Abner Polk, wealthy American. Alluring Phedre Renoire, hostess; Baron von Rentner, German industrialist; and Hideyo Kanamura, Japanese merchant, attract North's special attention. The party reaches a grim end when the corpse of an unknown nude beauty comes in on the tide to the gayly illuminated float. North makes an interesting post-mortem discovery. Later he exonerates Coast Artillery Lieut. Wilson Clark for neglect of duty. The latter is now wading unobserved war-zone activities of a mysterious Transpacific company.

CHAPTER SEVEN

"But to get on with the story: this Transpacific company, an American corporation, made a great fuss about reopening; their manager hired hundreds of coolies, brought in machinery and mining experts, and generally put the Talingho property back in condition."

"Just a minute, Lieutenant," North interjected from the midst of his mental calculations. "Did this purchase take place after Japan created Manchukuo as a buffer state—or before?"

"Thank you, I think I remember the later developments." Meditatively joining his fingertips, the intelligence captain went on: "No sooner had the Transpacific got well settled in Talingho than this bandit, marshal, Wang Tso Kin, began raiding into Sino-Japanese territory. Strange coincidence—eh?"

"That's right," Clark eagerly agreed. "When Wang got chased by the Japanese, he retreated towards the Transpacific property, though there was a much easier route about five miles to the north of the mine."

"It does give one pause," North remarked, "almost as much as to know why old Wang, after retreating over seventy-five miles direct to Talingho, decided to dig in just beyond the Transpacific property?"

"It was a neat piece of work on somebody's part," Lieutenant Clark observed. "Old Wang so disposed his troops that the Japanese commander had to post his on the Transpacific property or be wiped out. Remember what happened?"

A moment Captain North delved into some mental archive, then looked up, his eyes narrowed a little.

"Seems to me that when the Japs tried to take possession of the hill, American employes raised our flag and warned them off; the when the Japs persisted, they opened up with machine guns."

"In fact," cut in Clark, "the Transpacific mine guards knocked off about fifty of the attackers."

The intelligence captain frowned a little. "'t took a clever man—one above the average—to think that out."

"Yes, sir. But that wasn't the real damage. When the Japs fell back, Wang's crowd promptly took advantage of the opportunity to stage an offensive of their own. In fact, Captain, the bandits caught the Jap force in the flank and so cut 'em to kybobs, and of course Tokyo didn't like that a bit."

The speaker paused to slap a moccasin that hit on his wrist. "G-2 came into it because about a dozen American mine guards got shot during the row; American property had been invaded, Americans killed defending it, and all that."

Captain North began to pace back and forth while Clark, apparently eager to reinstate himself in his superior's good graces, hurried on with his account.

"The Japs of course sent out more troops immediately, drove Wang into the hills, and all was quiet till the end of April—the 20th, I think."

"The twentieth—is that exact?"

"Yes, sir. That was when this second offensive of Wang Tso Kin's began. As you know, the Japs shelled the Chinese position yesterday, and in doing so had to fire on the Transpacific property."

Lieutenant Clark's erect body sagged a little on its seat when North inquired, "What was the reaction here in Honolulu?"

"I—I don't know, sir, I was away on a trip—a trip. But the evening papers said that seven more Americans had been killed."

Again a strained silence fell on the bedroom, until North asked: "Well, what about this so-called 'friendly visit' of the Japanese Scout squadron I heard them talking about on the mainland?"

"Due in two days, sir, Clark said in a flat, sad voice. "Six cruisers, an airplane carrier, and a flotilla of twelve submarines. Everyone on the island is afraid of trouble, but you see how it is?"

"How what is, Lieutenant?"

"Why, if either government calls off this visit, the other will interpret it as an unfriendly gesture."

"I see. If the Japs don't show up, then our own jingos will say it shows bad faith and will assume that a declaration of war is imminent; and on the other hand, if Washington asks the Japanese admiral to postpone his visit, Japan will have it that the United States is about to declare war. It's an ugly mess, at any event."

Hugh North checked his restless parade by the open window to gaze out at palm tops which, in the pale moonlight, seemed to have been coated with frost. . . . Did Japan want war?

"Outside of rumors that there will be trouble, do you know of anything specific?" queried North, suddenly fixing his subordinate with grim and searching eyes.

"No," Clark replied with a return of his early silliness. "But the feeling is so strong that lots of men are sending their wives and children to the other side of the island till the Jap fleet pulls out."

The intelligence captain's lips formed a noiseless whistle, then changed the subject with, "Where are autopsies generally held in Honolulu?"

"At the Tripler General, sir—Dr. Thaxter's the coroner," Clark said earnestly. "And—well, I—I hope you'll let me help you, sir—I've . . ."

Abruptly, North, folding his arms, looked the other in the eyes until they wavered and sought the floor.

"Do you think I ought to? Do you realize what this idiotic infatuation of yours has cost G-2? Here's the Department faced with the worst crisis the country's had since 1918, and you"—his condemnation was utterly impersonal, and wholly withering—"you neglect your duty, spend your days and nights boating, picnicking, and chasing some girl."

"And now," North announced, "I've reached a decision. I'm not going to recommend you for dismissal. I've done plenty of fool things myself—though nothing on a par with this—so I know what it is to be young. There's still plenty of time for you to get over this nonsense."

"Thank you, sir," Clark burst out. "I'll never be able to tell you how grateful I am, and I—I'll work to the limit!"

"Right! But on the mainland—not here," Captain North paused by the window and looked out into the light-filled darkness where the Aloha tower, faintly gilded by the city's glare, dominated Honolulu. "You're going aboard the liner that sails for San Francisco at eleven-thirty tonight."

"Tonight!" Lieutenant Clark's white-clad body stiffened, and his eyes became two brown pools of misery. "Why—why—but I can't go tonight."

"You can, and will," Utterly final was North's tone. "I won't run the risk of having you see that Stefan woman again. I'm out to beat her and I don't want you"—he was deliberately brutal now in an effort to arouse his subordinate from his daze—"to go blabbing to her about my plans. See to it," he added sharply, "that you take that boat tonight. I suppose you can be trusted to do that?"

Miss Charlton, V.L. Malloy, Jr., Exchange Nuptial Vows Here

The wedding of Miss Camille Charlton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Charlton of E. Seventh st. and Vincent Malloy, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Malloy of Columbus st., was solemnized at 10:30 this morning in the rectory of St. Paul's rectory of St. Paul's Catholic church.

Rev. F. Herbert Cook officiated. Attendants were Miss Lucille Charlton, twin sister of the bride, and William Malloy, brother of the groom.

The bride wore a poudre blue ensemble with white accessories and wore a corsage of white rosebuds and delphinium. Her sister wore a yellow dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Malloy are graduates of Salem High school. Mr. Malloy is employed by C. B. Hunt company.

The couple left for a trip through the eastern states. After their return they will make their home on North Ellsworth ave.

Progressive Mothers Elect Officers

Entertained last night at the home of Mrs. Galen Weaver on N. Ellsworth ave., Progressive Mothers' circle elected new officers and made plans for the final meeting of the year June 24.

Officers are: President, Mrs. Ernest Horton; vice president, Mrs. Donald Reichart; secretary, Mrs. Charles Hanlon; treasurer, Mrs. A. W. Lieder.

Installation will be held at the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Richard Wilson on Maple st. The meeting will follow a dinner at the Westville Chicken Dinner. Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. George Alles and Mrs. Arthur V. Smith are in charge.

Members heard an interesting discussion of the subject "Pets—Shall Children Have Them?", given by Mrs. Alles, who said that the "consensus is that a child under seven years of age should not be allowed pets, since children younger are apt to abuse and mistreat the animals. When small children abuse the pet and it retaliates the animal must be either punished or disposed of by the parents and it is best, therefore, to wait until a child is able to care properly for a pet before providing one. Parents' attitude toward pets is important in the fixing of the child's attitude."

Legion Auxiliary to Hold Outing

Plans for an auxiliary picnic June 25, were discussed at the American Legion auxiliary meeting in the Legion home last night.

Cherry Crop Deficient
WASHINGTON, June 11.—A 100-ton deficiency in Ohio's 1941 commercial cherry crop was forecast by the agriculture department. The Ohio crop was estimated at 7,080 tons, compared with last year's 7,180-ton harvest. The national yield is expected to be about 148,390 tons. The department forecast a larger apple crop, but said a lower pear yield is expected.

Enlarge Ohio Plant
MANSFIELD, June 11.—Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. reported today plans to enlarge its Mansfield plant at a cost of approximately $500,000. The new plant will add a $240,000 addition to the vitreous enameling building, a new enameling furnace to supplement three now in operation, and the purchase of 6.2 acres of land for employe parking purposes.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Firemen, fighting a general alarm blaze, heard shrill cries of "Help! Help! Fire!" from a house across the street. Several firemen dashed into the house and found—a parrot.

MULLINS WALLOPS FURNACE 12-1 TO STAY UNDEFEATED

Sanitary Defeats China 4-1; Trinity and Christians Win In Class B

Mullins pounded out a 12-1 decision over the Electric Furnace last night to maintain their unbeaten record in the Class A softball league. A home run and a double by McCloskey led the Mullins' barrage, while doubles by Coseno and Kaiser supported him. A double by Allison was the Furnaces' best hit. "Gabby" Guappone hurled for Mullins while Griffith did the tossing for the losers.

The Sanitary and Salem China came turned in a five-hit performance, with Rutchey and Brudery doing the hurling, but two errors by the China team cost them the game, 4-2.

In the first Church league game last night the Trinity, bent on a Class B win, mowed down and rolled under the Baptists to the terrific tune of 23-2. Boughton slapped out two home runs and McGhee and Robbins one each to help swell the score. The Trinity amassed a total of 40 hits. The Christians defeated St. Paul in the second Class B game last night, 7-3. Reach clouted out a homer for the losers while the leading Christians' hit was a double by Lodge.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 11—(The Special News Service)—Joe Louis has done a lot of fighting in ball parks around the country, but when he goes against Conn next week in the Pologrounds, it will be his first stand in a National league park. Doctors have told Lefty Gomez to wear glasses while elbowing—think his poor control may be due to faulty vision. Van Mungo has looked real well in three games with Montreal, but he still has to show he can travel nine innings. Los Angeles is going to put in a strong bid for the 1942 tournament of the American Bowling Congress. Who is the best southpaw in the American league? Well, ole man Mose Grove—and he should know—says it's Marlin Russo of the Yankees. Whirlaway probably won't start again until the Arlington classic in Chicago.

Today's Guest Star
Jim Reed, Topeka (Kans.) Capital: "Minor league club owners out here in the short grass country are scared stiff. . . If Uncle Sam turns out the lights it means no groceries. . . the are light has been an arc-angel to the minors."

Quick Review
Larry MacPhail and Chick McEhan, famous football coach, may team up to promote fights at Ebbets field. . . Jim Braddock's signed story in the Associated Press feature service in which he picked Conn to beat Louis was given a swell ride by sports editors through out the country. . . Joe Medwick still is in bed and Dodgers fans fear he won't be able to go west with the club Thursday. . . Boston reporters say there is an entirely different feeling among the Red Sox and that you can feel that pennant fever. Fox is the big difference and all depends on how he holds up.

With The Bards
Re that Louis-Conn jingle you used the other day: "Still Louis is the guy he is, And when the fight is through, The championship should still be his And Conn should be still, too." . . S. E. Lawson.

News From Back Home

INDIANS LOOK TO YANKEE WEEK-END

Close Washington Series With Eye On New Challengers

CLEVELAND, June 11—The Indians are looking ahead to three week-end games with their newest challengers for first place, the New York Yankees. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh indicated today he would start Southpaw Al Smith and Al Milnar in the last two games of the Washington series here, leaving Bob Feller, Mel Harder and Jim Bagby, his ace right-handers, to handle the Rapert Rifles in the opening contests of an eastern tour which gets under way Saturday.

The Senators picked Ken Chase to oppose Smith today. Cleveland maintained its four-game edge over New York yesterday as Feller notched his 13th victory in stopping the Nats, 4 to 1. Bob scattered four hits and fanned six batters in taking his eighth consecutive decision. He was last beaten May 10 in St. Louis. The victory put Feller three weeks ahead of his 1940 pace when he notched No. 13 on July 3 and went on to win 27 games.

CRAIG WOOD WILL PLAY IN MAHONING

U. S. Open Champ Vies With Leading Par Busters at Girard

GIRARD, June 11—The name of Craig Wood, newly-crowned U. S. Open champion, was added today to the roster of par busters who will compete in the $3,000 72-hole Mahoning Valley Open golf tournament here Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Wood advised the tournament management from his Mamaroneck, N. Y., home club that he would come here to launch his tour of the entire summer golf circuit. He is expected to test the course today.

There'll be plenty of competition for him—including Ben Hogan, the country's leading money winner this year, who will be among the field of 200 professionals and amateurs. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—Mutual—and coincident—drowsiness at the wheel brought injuries to two motorists here. Lee Davis parked beside a highway for a nap. Two minutes later, a car driven by Melvin Boulton crashed into the Davis machine. Boulton said he was napping.

PHILADELPHIANS SEE FOUR ONE-HIT GAMES AT SHIBE

Lon Warneke Scores Third At Park In Eight Days

(By Associated Press)
If baseball fans at Philadelphia don't get a no-hit game there this season they are going to be disappointed. Various National league pitchers already have provided four one-hitters at Shibe park—and three of them have been crowded into the past eight days.

Hank Gornick, St. Louis Cardinal rookie who since has returned to the minors, held the Phillies to a lone safety on May 3. Tommy Hughes of the Phils duplicated the trick June 3 against the Chicago Cubs. Three nights later Johnny Vander Meer of the Cincinnati Reds pitched what some of his teammates call his third no-hitter, giving them Phils one schatchy single.

Warneke Joins Group
Yesterday Lon Warneke, the lean veteran of the Cardinals, joined the society with a 3-0 shutout of the Phils in which the only blow was a single by Emmett Mueller, the home club's first man up in the opening inning.

There was some other fine pitching yesterday. Bob Feller achieved his 13th victory of the season and eighth straight by holding the Washington Senators to four hits while the Cleveland Indians slapped out a 4 to 1 decision.

One-Hitter Until Ninth
Steve Peck, rookie knuckleballer of the New York Yankees, had a one-hitter going into the ninth inning against the Chicago White Sox. He weakened to allow five singles and three runs in that frame, but the Yankees won easily 8-3, and took over second place in the American league.

Tommy Bridges, the little veteran of the Detroit Tigers, put on a strikeout show against the Philadelphia Athletics, fanning 14, out tired badly in the late innings and had to be rescued by big Al Benton as Detroit won, 4-3.

Night Game Postponed
A night game between the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns was postponed.

The Brooklyn Dodgers cut short their slump with a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were held to six hits by their old nemesis, Fred Fitzsimmons. Vander Meer achieved his sixth success of the season by scattering nine hits as the world champion Cincinnati Reds beat the Boston Braves, 4-3, for their ninth conquest in 11 games and took over third place. Vern Olsen pitched the Chicago Cubs to an 11-0 shutout of the New York Giants.

OPEN SEASON FOR DEER IS PROPOSED

Commission Also Hears Plan To Shoot Hen Pheasants

COLUMBUS, June 11—Proposals for a brief open season on deer in Ohio and a change in presents laws to permit shooting of hen pheasants as well as cock birds were considered by the state conservation commission today as it met to set hunting season dates and bag limits for the year.

The suggestion that Ohio hunters be allowed to shoot deer was made by Floyd Swiger, Piketon farmer and a district supervisor of the state commission. "It would be better for the state to have a brief open season on deer than to pay farmers for damage to land and crops which they cause," Swiger said, as he estimated that Scioto county alone had more than 4,500 deer, which "sportsmen and farmers would welcome the opportunity to shoot."

Site of Game Preserve
Scioto county is the site of the 3,500-acre Roosevelt game preserve where deer are reared under state protection.

Another district supervisor, Lester Fink of Arlington, O., urged the board to permit hunters to shoot hen pheasants as well as cock birds because they "have become so numerous in Hancock county that farmers consider them a pest."

Five of the state's seven district representatives opposed re-establishment of the "staggered" hunting season for pheasants, while all agreed that present game seasons and bag limits in the state are "generally satisfactory."

SLAP-HAPPY CAMP SEES CONN NEAR CONDITION PEAK

Pittsburgh Clouter Is Confident As Deadline Nears

BY SID FEDER

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 11—The big question up here in the open-air nuthouse that passes for Billy Conn's training camp isn't whether Billy will be right for Joe Louis, but whether Manager Johnny Ray is going to make it.

At his calmest, worryin' Johnny is about as sedate as a plate full of jumping beans on the loose. But at the current rate of Conn's wear and tear on his nerves, it is doubtful that the little guy who brought "Junior" up to his heavyweight championship match is going to be able to stand up by next Wednesday night, much less work in Billy's corner.

Nears Peak of Condition
The Pittsburgher pretty boy is near the peak of his conditioning, weighs just under 180 pounds and is one of the most confident clouters ever to come up to the bomber. A gaster of the old school, he has Johnny riding on a merry-go-round. Natives hereabouts in the Rambo hills are setting their watches by the fighter and his manager. There's a row between 'em every hour on the hour.

For instance, Johnny came out of the challenger's cottage the other noon, looking for Conn. He happened to glance upward, and there, taking a sunbath, was Billy, balanced carelessly on the edge of the gabled roof—a million dollars worth of fighter who could have become a hospital case if a breeze blew at him.

"If It Wasn't for the Fight—"
"Get down offa there," Johnny howled. "Do you wanna fall and get hurt?"

"If you want me, come up and get me," Conn shouted back. "You can't get up the same way I did—shimmy up the rainpipe."

Johnny staggered off, moaning that a gate which may come within shouting distance of a half-million dollars next week in the Polo grounds was lying haphazardly on the edge of 20 feet of space.

"That Billy," he groaned, "is the worst, dirtiest little bum I ever saw. If it wasn't for the fight I'd lick him myself."

commendations made by the defense mediation board. Senator Byrnes
(D-SC), acting senate majority leader, declared:

"Work or Quit"
"The government can continue to operate the plant. If the men don't want to accept the decision of the mediation board, they can quit.
More men can always be found to take over their jobs."

The Bohn strike came after the mediation board had taken jurisdiction. Mr. Roosevelt asked yesterday whether the army might be used in the aluminum strikes, said the cases were in the hands of the board.

The UAW asked of the Bohn company a general 10 cent hourly increase over undisclosed existing wage scales.
Bohn officials said they planned
no negotiations on wages before April 1, 1942, when an existing labor contract with the UAW expires.

Continuation of the strike for at least a week was predicted by State
Conciliator Edward Owen. He said representatives of the disputants had been summoned to mediation board hearings in Washington Monday.
